What happens now?

Thank you for telling us about your complaint. We will contact you to confirm that we have received it. We encourage you to file a complaint as soon as possible, if you think an individual or company has violated the securities laws of British Columbia. Please note that, by law, we may not be able to take action on your complaint if the incident occurred more than six years ago.

If we determine that we should conduct a detailed review of your complaint, you will receive a letter with contact details for the person assigned to assess your complaint. You may contact this person to discuss any further questions, comments or concerns, or to provide additional or new information relevant to your complaint. Please understand that the contact person is unable to discuss with you any details of an investigation prior to its conclusion. We take this precaution to ensure that we do not divulge any information that may jeopardize an investigation.

The BCSC collects the information on this form to determine what, if any, action it can take. The BCSC treats all complaints it receives in confidence. The information you provide will only be used in accordance with the BCSC's duties and powers, as described in the British Columbia Securities Act.
