The British Columbia Securities Commission (Commission) received $38,639.69 as a result of an order made by the executive director under section 161(1)(g) of the Securities Act (the Act) against Shijun "Clark" Zhu.
Pursuant to section 15.1 of the Act, the Commission must publish a notice if funds are received from an order under section 161(1)(g) so that persons who lost money as a direct result of the misconduct that resulted in the order may make a claim.
On May 5, 2021, the executive director of the Commission and Zhu entered into a settlement agreement in which Zhu admitted contravention of sections 34(a) and 34(b) of the Act by being in the business of trading and advising without being registered. In 2016, Zhu entered into investment agreements with five investors, receiving discretionary authority over trading accounts with assets totalling $532,854. By 2018, Zhu's trading caused or contributed to the depletion of the investors' funds.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER MAKING YOUR CLAIM

If the Commission determines that you are an eligible applicant, it may make a payment to you. When determining the amount to pay you, the Commission must consider the following:

- (a) the amount of money the Commission received from the order
- (b) the loss you suffered
- (c) the losses all eligible applicants suffered
- (d) any other information the Commission considers appropriate in the circumstances.

If there is not enough to pay the claims of all eligible applicants, the Commission may prorate claims among the eligible applicants. This means eligible applicants may get only some of the amount they claim.

If the Commission intends to deny all or part of your claim, other than to prorate your claim, you will have an opportunity to make submissions to the Commission before it decides your claim.
